

Soon after earning her bachelor's degree in Sociology in 2004, Quinn started her career on to the front line of HIV/AIDS as a Case Manager with AID Upstate. In 2007, she began working as Clinical Case Manager (CCM), housed in New Horizon Family Health Service's facility. It was then that South Carolina was met with the daunting reality that South Carolina's AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP) was in crisis, holding the longest waiting list in the country. She managed the Pharmaceutical Assistance Program (PAP) helping uninsured clients to receive medications at no out-of-pocket cost.

In the fall of 2007, she took on the role of Client Services Director with AID Upstate and manages the Ryan White (Care Act) Part B - Medical Case Management (MCM) programs and staff. Quinn is proud to know that she helps PLWHA in her community understand that they too can live happier, healthier lives with access to care, treatment, and other psychosocial services through the dedication of people who truly care.

Q: What do you enjoy doing in your free time away from the office?

A: I enjoy spending time with my 3 small children who keep me very busy. I also enjoy DIY projects and crafting.

Q: What do you hope visitors will take away about our organization?

A: I hope that visitors will understand that we have a sincere passion for improving the quality of lives of men, women, children, and families affected by HIV/AIDS. I also hope that visitors will want to educate their families, friends, and communities about the prevalence and prevention of HIV/AIDS and help us to reduce the stigma attached to people living with HIV/AIDS.
